

Born on January 27, 1925 at St. Elizabeth's Hospital in Humboldt, SK, Irma was the fifth of sixteen children born to Joseph August and Hedwig (née Hogg) Langen. Irma and her siblings were raised in Lake Lenore where her father worked as a grain buyer. Irma completed her education at the Ursuline Academy in Bruno in 1944 and immediately began working as a legal secretary at the office of Sutherland and Saddlemyer in Humboldt. When Mr. Saddlemyer retired in 1970, Irma became the Assistant Secretary-Treasurer at the Humboldt School Unit and continued working there until her retirement in 1984. Irma was a talented piano player who played without sheet music and could hear a song the first time and play it flawlessly. She met a young man named Leonard who added an extra sparkle to an already talented family of mostly female musicians by convincing Irma to marry him, and make music. Irma married Leonard Virgil Still on March 29, 1948 at St. Augustine R.C. Church, in Humboldt. Irma and Leonard enjoyed entertaining family who fondly remember her playing piano, singing up a storm, and laughing. Irma was an avid reader and, as her competitors can attest, a fierce Scrabble player. She also maintained a keen interest in politics, sparked by her time working with the local Returning Office during the historic 1944 provincial election. In retirement, Irma kept busy by bowling, belonging to the Guardian Angels and C.W.L., and meeting with her Ladies' Night Out friends regularly. A highlight of Irma's retirement was her trip to Germany to visit her Hogg cousins and the villages and towns of her ancestors.
